

1) Tenor and Opera Philadelphia Artistic Advisor Lawrence Brownlee kicks off Opera Philadelphia's reimagined 2020–2021 season with "Lawrence Brownlee & Friends in Philadelphia."

Photo by Shervin Lainez

2) 2015's La traviata makes its broadcast debut on the Opera Philadelphia Channel. The production from director Paul Curran starred soprano Lisette Oropesa in her role debut as Violetta.

Photo by Kelly & Massa

3) Tenor Alek Shrader and soprano Lisette Oropesa in 2015's beloved La traviata, streaming this fall on the Opera Philadelphia Channel.

Photo by Kelly & Massa

4) Revisit 2015's La traviata, starring soprano Lisette Oropesa in her role debut as Violetta.

Photo by Kelly & Massa

5) Cycles of My Being, with music by composer Tyshawn Sorey and words by poet Terrance Hayes, premiered at Opera Philadelphia in 2018 and returns in a new presentation starring Lawrence Brownlee.

(Violinist Randall Mitsuo Goosby, pianist Kevin Miller, cellist Khari Joyner, Lawrence Brownlee, clarinetist Alexander Laing, and Tyshawn Sorey at the world premiere of Cycles of My Being.)

Photo by Dominic M. Mercier

6) Lawrence Brownlee performs Cycles of My Being, a song cycle about the experience of being a Black man in America.

Photo by Dominic M. Mercier

7) Lawrence Brownlee performs Cycles of My Being, a song cycle about the experience of being a Black man in America.

Photo by Dominic M. Mercier

8) Composer and multi-instrumentalist Tyshawn Sorey, Opera Philadelphia's current Composer in Residence, and composer of Cycles of My Being.

Photo by John Rogers

9) Composer and multi-instrumentalist Tyshawn Sorey, Opera Philadelphia's current Composer in Residence, and composer of Cycles of My Being.

Photo by John Rogers

10) The 2020-2021 season will feature a new presentation of Soldier Songs by David T. Little, a former Opera Philadelphia Composer in Residence.

Photo by Merri Cyr

11) Baritone Johnathan McCullough stars in David T. Little's Soldier Songs.

Photo by Nick Nestorak

12) Bass baritone Sir Willard White makes his company debut in a filmed adaptation of El Cimarrón by Hans Werner Henze.

Photo courtesy of Intermusica