

Opera Philadelphia Channel Press Gallery

	1) Composer David T. Little and Beth Morrison Projects' Black Lodge, which premiered at Festival O22, is now streaming on the Opera Philadelphia Channel.
	2) In 2023, a new Digital Commission from composer Yaz Lancaster will be coming to the Opera Philadelphia Channel. Photo by Felix Walworth
	3) In 2023, a new Digital Commission from composer Raquel Acevedo Klein will be coming to the Opera Philadelphia Channel. Photo by Frank Impelluso

- 4) The Passion of Scrooge from composer John Deak and director H. Paul Moon is part of Opera Philadelphia Channel Presents, a curated lineup of cinematic opera presented in partnership with artists and creatives across the country.

- 5) A Jarful of Bees from composer Paola Prestini, librettist Royce Vavrek, and mezzo-soprano Eve Gigliotti is part of Opera Philadelphia Channel Presents, a curated lineup of cinematic opera presented in partnership with artists and creatives across the country.

- 6) Rumspingawakening from writer/director Adam Taylor and composer Nathan Fletcher, starring Jon Lee Keenan and Janet Szepei Todd, starts streaming January 13, 2023 as part of Opera Philadelphia Channel Presents.

- 7) Obscura Nox, from director Mary Birnbaum, starring Julia Dawson, and with music by Mozart and composer Iman Habibi, starts streaming January 20, 2023 as part of Opera Philadelphia Channel Presents.

- 8) Opera Ithaca's film version of Engelbert Humperdinck's Hansel and Gretel, starring Meghan Kasanders, Annie Rosen, and Marlen Nahhas, starts streaming February 10, 2023 as part of Opera Philadelphia Channel Presents.

9) Erwartung / EXPECTATION from director George R. Miller and featuring Timothy McDevitt and Renate Rohlfing, starts streaming March 3, 2023 as part of Opera Philadelphia Channel Presents.

10) Experiments in Opera's made-for-TV opera series Everything for Dawn, featuring the work of 10 composers and libretto from a six-person writers room, starts streaming April 7, 2023 as part of Opera Philadelphia Channel presents.